FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

I refer to your recent request for information which has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002.

For ease of reference, your request is replicated below together with the response.

I would like to submit a freedom of information request for the number of reports made or referred to the Police Service of Scotland of sexual assaults or sexually motivated assaults in primary and secondary schools in Inverness since 01/01/2021 until today's date. The request should also include the number of reports with offenders under the age of criminal responsibility which were reported to the Police Service of Scotland, including all cases which are currently being investigated.

Having considered your request in terms of the above Act, I regret to inform you that I am unable to provide you with the information you have requested, as it would prove too costly to do so within the context of the fee regulations.

As you may be aware the current cost threshold is £600 and I estimate that it would cost well in excess of this amount to process your request.

As such, and in terms of Section 16(4) of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 where Section 12(1) of the Act (Excessive Cost of Compliance) has been applied, this represents a refusal notice for the information sought.

By way of explanation, the crime recording systems used by Police Scotland have no facility whereby specific premises such as schools can be automatically identified, nor is there a facility which allows for a search to be carried out by locus type.

As such, case by case assessment of all sexual offences in Inverness, for the time period specified, would be required to allow us to establish the locus of the offence and also the age of accused.

This would involve individually examining thousands of crime reports, which is an exercise that I estimate would far exceed the cost limit set out in the Fees Regulations.

Should you require any further assistance please contact Information Management Dundee, quoting the reference number given.

If you are dissatisfied with the way in which Police Scotland has dealt with your request, you are entitled, in the first instance, to request a review of our actions and decisions.

Your request must specify the matter which gives rise to your dissatisfaction and it must be submitted within 40 working days of receiving this response - either by email to
