Corruption

Introduction

We promote and continually look to improve professional and ethical standards, to protect the integrity and reputation of Police Scotland and to further enhance public trust and confidence.

We have dedicated units who are the guardians of Police Scotland's integrity. They protect the organisation in a number of ways, such as intelligence led investigations targeting those who seek to exploit vulnerabilities, to supporting officers and staff in identifying, taking ownership of and proactively addressing any corrupt practices and unethical behaviour.

Capability

We have particular expertise in robust complaints handling, vetting and risk management to protect the values and standards of the organisation. We can provide training and consultancy advice to help protect your organisation.
