Operational Training

Introduction

Police Scotland has earned an enviable reputation in relation to its delivery of operational policing. The diverse array of available training in this field is extensive and is tailored to ensure that our staff are as operationally effective as possible.

We have a long history of working with many individuals, groups, organisations and governments in building capacity in areas of interest. To simply list the training we have on offer would not do justice to our expertise in this field.

Capability

We can work with you to develop a single course or a suite of interventions to meet your specific needs, if need be, over an extended period. A sample of our courses range from Initial Recruit training, Leadership, First Aid, Command, Conflict Management, Crisis Negotiation and many more besides.
