FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

I refer to your recent request for information which has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002.

For ease of reference, your request is replicated below together with the response.

Data for the following years: 2018, 2019, 2020, and 2021.

- 1. How many fines have been issued for the illegal use of electronic scooters (also known as e-scooters)?
- 2. How many people who have been fined have also been given points on their driving licenses?
- 3. How much has been issued in fines (in £)?
- 4. What is the largest fine that has been issued for the illegal use of electronic scooters (in £)?

In response to these questions, I regret to inform you that I am unable to provide you with the information you have requested, as it would prove too costly to do so within the context of the fee regulations.

As you may be aware the current cost threshold is £600 and I estimate that it would cost well in excess of this amount to process your request.

As such, and in terms of Section 16(4) of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 where Section 12(1) of the Act (Excessive Cost of Compliance) has been applied, this represents a refusal notice for the information sought.

By way of explanation, crimes in Scotland are recorded in accordance with the Scottish Government Justice Department offence classification codes however there is no specific classification which relates to those outlined in your request.

As such, the only way to provide an accurate response to your request would be to individually examine all Road Traffic offences, to establish the type of vehicle involved. This is an exercise which I estimate would far exceed the cost limit set out in the Fees Regulations.

Should you require any further assistance please contact Information Management - Dundee quoting the reference number given.

OFFICIAL

If you are dissatisfied with the way in which Police Scotland has dealt with your request, you are entitled, in the first instance, to request a review of our actions and decisions.
