FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

I refer to your recent request for information which has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002.

For ease of reference, your request is replicated below together with the response.

How many school incidents that resulted in police action were related to final day pranks, each year, between January 2017 and January 2022? Can I please have this information separated by school.

In response to this question, I regret to inform you that I am unable to provide you with the information you have requested, as it would prove too costly to do so within the context of the fee regulations.

As you may be aware the current cost threshold is £600 and I estimate that it would cost well in excess of this amount to process your request.

As such, and in terms of Section 16(4) of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 where Section 12(1) of the Act (Excessive Cost of Compliance) has been applied, this represents a refusal notice for the information sought.

By way of explanation, the crime and incident recording systems used by Police Scotland have no facility whereby specific premises such as schools can be automatically identified.

It is also not possible to carry out a search of these systems by nature of locus and/or any link to what could be described as an end of term prank.

As such, the only way to provide an accurate response to your request would be to carry out case by case assessment of all reports, for all incidents which occurred within the relevant time frame to establish the circumstances and locus.

This would involve individually assessing tens of thousands of reports which is an exercise that I estimate would far exceed the cost limit set out in the Fees Regulations.

Should you require any further assistance please contact Information Management Dundee, quoting the reference number given.

If you are dissatisfied with the way in which Police Scotland has dealt with your request, you are entitled, in the first instance, to request a review of our actions and decisions.
