FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

I refer to your recent request for information which has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002.

For ease of reference, your request is replicated below together with the response.

- 1. The number of police calls to primary and secondary schools?
- 2. The number of recorded criminal activity at primary and secondary schools?

In response to these questions, I regret to inform you that I am unable to provide you with the information you have requested, as it would prove too costly to do so within the context of the fee regulations.

As you may be aware the current cost threshold is £600 and I estimate that it would cost well in excess of this amount to process your request.

As such, and in terms of Section 16(4) of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 where Section 12(1) of the Act (Excessive Cost of Compliance) has been applied, this represents a refusal notice for the information sought.

By way of explanation, the incident and crime recording systems used by Police Scotland have no facility whereby specific premises such as schools can be automatically identified.

As such, the only way to provide an accurate response to your request would be to individually examine each and every report for relevance - an exercise which I estimate would far exceed the cost limit set out in the Fees Regulations.

There are however some offences related to weapons within schools, and recorded and detected crime statistics for these offences are publicly available on the Police Scotland website:-
