FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

I refer to your recent request for information which has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002.

For ease of reference, your request is replicated below together with the response.

- 1. For the calendar years 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021 and 2022 to date, the total number of reported road accidents involving delivery bike riders, motor cyclers, scooter riders or any other form from food delivery companies such as Just Eat, Deliveroo, Uber eats and etc.

Can I have the data returned to me broken down by calendar year please.

Having considered your request in terms of the above Act, I regret to inform you that I am unable to provide you with the information you have requested, as it would prove too costly to do so within the context of the fee regulations.

As you may be aware the current cost threshold is £600 and I estimate that it would cost well in excess of this amount to process your request.

As such, and in terms of Section 16(4) of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 where Section 12(1) of the Act (Excessive Cost of Compliance) has been applied, this represents a refusal notice for the information sought.

By way of explanation, the Road Traffic Collision (RTC) recording system used by Police Scotland has no searchable field which would allow for the automatic retrieval of this information.

As such, case by case assessment of all potentially relevant RTCs would be required to establish whether it was connected to food delivery.

This would involve individually examining thousands of reports, which is an exercise that I estimate would far exceed the cost limit set out in the Fees Regulations.

Should you require any further assistance please contact Information Management Dundee, quoting the reference number given.

If you are dissatisfied with the way in which Police Scotland has dealt with your request, you are entitled, in the first instance, to request a review of our actions and decisions.
