Ports Policing Policy

The Police Service of Scotland (PSoS) recognises that seaports, airports and the aviation sector are a critical part of the national infrastructure and present a unique set of policing challenges.

PSoS is committed to keeping people safe and maintaining a safe and secure environment for passengers and those working in the ports communities to go about their lives freely and with confidence. The Service will work together with our partners and communities in securing the border from the threat from terrorism, exploitation by criminals, the supply of illegal commodities and the trafficking of vulnerable people.

PSoS will provide leadership for civil aviation emergencies and critical incidents affecting the ports communities.
