Cyber Threats

POLICE SCOTLAND
Keeping people safe

Introduction

Cybercrime and cyber threats, committed in full or in part using information communications technology is ever evolving. Online criminal activity continues to pose a risk to organisations across the world. Police Scotland work in close partnership with international law enforcement agencies and partners to detect and deter. The training we offer is attractive to many organisations and governments to assist in the prevention of an attack.

Capability

We can design courses to your specific needs. We can host seminars and provide support and guidance to partners and law enforcement colleagues throughout the world, sharing our expertise in this area.
